When and where?

ACML 2024 will be held between 5-8 December in Hanoi.

From where?

- The latest results of researchers working on machine learning and related fields are presented, they come together to share their ideas and achievements.
- Leading international experts are invited to give special presentations.
- Vietnamese researchers working on machine learning and industry come together with international expert researchers, allowing them all to interact.
- For students, researchers and industry workers new to the field of machine learning, this provides accelerated training and engagement with experts.

Who is participating?

Researchers and company employees engaged in R&D on related subjects will participate. Since it is held in Vietnam, we expect both domestic and geographically close participants. World-famous speakers are invited, well known Asian academics attend, and workshops allow focused discussions. Approximately 200-300 participants are expected, based on the number of papers submitted, interactions and previous experience. Approximately half of the participants are international, the other half national, and half of the participants are students.

Who organizes it?

The General Chair is Prof. Wray Buntine from VinUniversity, Dr. Vu Nguyen from Amazon Research and Prof. Hsuan-Tien Lin from National Taiwan University are Program Chairs and Local Arrangement is Dr. Le Duy Dung from VinUniversity and Prof. Huynh Thi Thanh Binh from Hanoi UST.

Further details of the international organizing committee are at: https://www.acml-conf.org/2024/committees/.
